A black and white line drawing of a complex maze. The maze is composed of thick black lines forming a series of interconnected paths and dead ends. The layout is roughly rectangular, with a thick border on the top and bottom. The interior is filled with a network of horizontal and vertical lines of varying lengths, creating a challenging path to follow. There are several large open spaces and many small, narrow passages. The overall design is intricate and symmetrical in some areas, but not perfectly balanced.
